

Living Next Door to the Death House (Paperback)

By Virginia Stem Owens, David Clinton Owens

William B Eerdmans Publishing Co, United States, 2003.
 Paperback. Book Condition: New. 226 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .When a prisoner on death row is executed, it's not just the families of the murderer and the victim who feel the effects. The attorneys, the jury, the law enforcement officers, the prison guards, the wardens overseeing the execution, the chaplains and advisors, the technicians who prepare the syringe and prick the vein - all of these people are affected, and they all have powerful stories to tell, stories that are woven together in the riveting narrative of Living Next Door to the Death House. Authors Virginia Stem Owens and David Clinton Owens live in Huntsville, Texas, which has earned a reputation as the death penalty capital of the United States. They call Huntsville a company town, where the company in question, the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, employs almost a quarter of the residents. With so much of the population directly connected to the prison system, the ultimate punishment - meted out as often as once a week - is always next door. Through candid, compelling interviews with those in Huntsville connected...
