Excerpt: .higher departments to the greater gods, and the less important to those of low rank, until every portion of the vast realm of nature--sun and moon and stars, rivers and hills, trees and flowers, birds and beasts; every department of human labour--buying and selling, sowing and reaping; every stage of human life--birth, marriage, death, ---each and all had their own presiding deities. In the same way, the varying conditions of the human body, and the different affections of the human mind--health and sickness, joy and sorrow, faith and love, hope and fear, virtue and vice--were elevated into so many distinct objects of worship. There was a god of thieves; there was a god of drains and of evil smells. When we read of deities who had one special function to perform, and who are never heard of in any other relation--such as the god Vaticanus,...
